SIS has received reference (a) and noted the [REDACTED] critique of [REDACTED] paper, particularly the statement that "The analysis throughout the report is quite superficial and often quite misleading." Considering that the subject of Sino-Soviet economic relations is one of major importance to the [REDACTED] government in general and to the [REDACTED] in particular and also has a bearing on [REDACTED] policy toward Communist China, it would appear to be in the interests of the United States that the government and intelligence services of [REDACTED] be accurately informed on this subject. SIS therefore queries whether it would be feasible to pass to [REDACTED] the bulk of the data contained in the excellent [REDACTED] report "Economic Relations of Communist China with the USSR since 1950" (59-16, May 1959). SIS notes from the Source References (Appendix I) that only two (Nos. 1 and 19) of the forty sources cited are classified. It would not be necessary to pass the actual printed report. SIS could have the approved portions of the text and tables retyped for passage. If [REDACTED] would forward separate copies of the charts contained in 59-16 which are releasable, a complete sanitized document could be prepared here at the station.

2. If this query is favorably received at Headquarters, SIS anticipates submitting similar requests in the future -- on a limited and selective basis. However, -- for sanitizing and passing other [REDACTED] analyses to [REDACTED] concerning Sino-Soviet economic relations and also concerning Chinese domestic economic developments.
